LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS HOLDS PUBLIC FORUM ON “THE ROLE OF THE PLANNING BOARD AND THE ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS
IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF LAND IN EAST HAMPTON, SOUTHAMPTON TOWNS AND SAG HARBOR VILLAGE”
Monday, April 11, 7 p.m., Hampton Library, Bridgehampton

The League of Women Voters of the Hamptons will be hosting a public meeting for the community on “The Role of the Planning Board and the Zoning Board of Appeals in the Development of Land in East Hampton and Southampton Towns and Sag Harbor Village” on Monday, April 11 at 7 p.m. in the community room of Bridgehampton’s Hampton Library at 2478 Main Street.

A member of the appointed boards will describe how the Board functions and explain how land use decisions are made.

In asking planning and zoning board members to speak, League vice president Judi Roth said, “The work and land use decisions of our Planning and Zoning Boards can have tremendous effects on our lives, and yet most citizens don't really know how they work. We hope this session will go some way toward educating us about the important roles these boards play in Southampton and East Hampton Towns.”

Panelists will include: Jacqui Lofaro, member of the Town of Southampton Planning Board; Adam Grossman, vice chair of Southampton Town’s Zoning Board of Appeals; Robert Schaeffer, vice chair of the East Hampton Town Planning Board; and Brendan Skislock, member of Village of Sag Harbor Zoning Board of Appeals.

Previous LWV educational forums have featured the Town Supervisors, Town Trustees, and representatives from the local agriculture and aquaculture communities.

Refreshments will be served at the beginning of the program. A question-and-answer session will follow the panel’s presentation.

For further information, call the library at 631-537-0015 or the League at 631-283-0759.
